

Unless the desire for change is genuine
Nothing upon the face of this earth will
Persuade one to walk a different path in life
In the absence of a clearly defined objective
Attempts to break free of external influences
Which limit the potential for inner growth
Create turmoil of an introspective nature
Unless one consciously seeks transformation
Limitation that stems from a narrow mindset
Will restrict one's ability to move beyond the Stagnant thoughts which cripple internal growth
The struggle to embrace ideas that contribute
Towards the lofty vision one consciously seeks Obstructing any chance of internal appeasement